The 1974 Corinoma is dedicated to the graduating class. We, the class of 1974, would like to explain our seemingly egotistical yearbook dedication. In essence we are not dedicating this yearbook to ourselves, we are dedicating it to everyone responsible for making us what we are, for changing us from students to adults. Although we went through many difficult days in high school, through their unselfish concern for us many sincere people helped our school years to be happy and valuable. Although we sometimes acted disrespectfully toward teachers and staff members, looking back we realize how much these people helped us. It is impossible to list the names of all who have helped us, but most of all we would like to give special recognition to Miss Eleanor Witmeyer and Mr. Adam Barnhart, our class advisors, who went far beyond the definition of class advisor in their efforts to help us. To all these people, and especially our advisors, we dedicate our yearbook and offer our thanks.

Dedication 1974

We rise with the sun;

bleary-eyed and sleepy

We awake to the sound of unnoticed announcements.

We live in a welter of insurmountable math problems

term papers, mouth-watering
food, and unbelievable confusion.

In spite of deadlines and promises

we survive!

We came as strangers;

*We shall leave
old friends*

in the midst of May and blossoms,

*we shall pack our books and quietly, suddenly,
steal away.*

IN MEMORIAM

Victor Cintron
1956-1970

AN ANGEL AMONG YOU

Tuesday was such a beautiful day until tragedy struck that eve.
It was Victor who was injured on his bike — so very hard to believe.
The thirty-one hours of unconsciousness were filled with prayers and tears.
Then the rain poured down, and the lightning flashed — but God kept us from our fears,
For in that hour somehow you knew
God was there to ease the pain.
He had come for Victor we were soon informed,
but his memory will always remain.
Above all else there was his smile,
a smile to match no other.
T'was meant for all — no favorites played.
To him we were all his brother.
Of science he was especially fond — a microscope his prized possession.
The academic course he would pursue — college was his big ambition.
Where a penny could be earned,
he'd be right there no matter what the chore, Selling "Grit," shoveling snow, mowing lawns or the like and was always ready for more.

A proud fellow he always was,
self-confident in every way.
So grateful to his parents who tried so hard to make it better for him someday.
But that day never came,
and we'll never know why — t'is a sad, sad thing indeed.
But look to the Lord for the way to go and for the strength that we all need.
And in quiet moments, as you sit and think of why he was taken away, You'll be quickly reminded that for a short time you had an angel among you each day.

Special School Services

There are several groups in the school who receive little recognition for what they do. The secretaries, bus drivers, cafeteria workers, janitors, and school nurse worked constantly to serve the school and help the students. Although these workers were often criticized this year, they deserve praise for their ceaseless efforts.

Never Ending School Days

Under the direction of the new advisor, Mr. Walter, the Future Teachers of America learned about the available opportunities and essential qualities of becoming a professional teacher. As an introduction to the profession the members assumed the role of teachers in the fields they wish to pursue. Administrators and teachers who spoke to the group gave the members an idea of what they will have to face when they become teachers.

A New Look in Homemaking

Through the use of discussion, guest speakers, and instruction in the art of home-making the Future Homemakers of America acquired a growing appreciation of the joys and satisfaction of homemaking. The club was also a means of service to the community.

Over the Christmas season the members visited the Elizabethtown Children's Hospital, entertained the patients, and gave them handmade Christmas stockings. The girls also sponsored a mother-daughter banquet which was financed by doughnut sales.

FFA Works Toward a New Horizon

Under the leadership of Mr. Morton the Future Farmers of America developed agricultural leadership, citizenship, and cooperation. Through the organization the members not only learned the art of agriculture but also served the community. This year the chapter members sponsored an assembly program for the junior high, held a pumpkin-growing contest for the elementary, and helped to guide the Junior High Future Farmers. To finance these projects the organization held citrus fruit and bologna sales and sponsored a donkey basketball game.

Ready . . . Set . . . Type!

The Future Business Leaders of America tried to further interest and understanding in the field of business occupations. This year the members heard several businessmen speak, competed with other schools in business subjects, and established a secretarial corps which aided the teachers and gave valuable experience to club members. Because the club held a successful bake sale, it was able to finance a roller skating party, a spring regional, and a yearly field trip.

Tomorrow's Medical Professionals

This year under a new name the Health Careers Club attempted to cover the many aspects in the field of health careers. Because the club invited a wide variety of guest speakers and attended several health career conventions, each member was able to ask questions pertaining to the career he wishes to pursue. As a service to the community the members made a donation to cancer research.

The Senior High Honor Society is an organization formed as an honor to outstanding students. Members are selected on basis of their scholastic ability, leadership qualities, school citizenship, and outstanding character. Although the organization held a field trip to a museum, this year the Honor Society was mainly a service organization. The members organized a tutoring system, served as guides for the high school's Parent Night, ran a book store, and changed one of the school's bulletin boards.

What's a Yearbook?

The members of the school yearbook staff devoted their time to the production and sales of the school yearbook. Besides the usual problems of organizing picture schedules, constructing layouts, writing copy, and meeting deadlines in the middle of the year, this year's yearbook staff was faced with the problem of finding replacements. Despite all of these handicaps the staff proudly presented its own little masterpiece, Corinoma '74. This book reflects a lot of time and hard work by the members of the staff.

Hear Ye, Hear Ye!

The Dutchman Crier, like most school organizations, is both a service to the school and a learning experience. Because the Dutchman Crier is a student-run publication, staff members have to learn to report, write articles, and organize the entire newspaper. The newspaper includes news, sports, entertainment, and editorials. This year the Dutchman Crier staff tried to improve not only printed material but also circulation and reputation of the paper.

Welcome Home, Sabrina!

The Tri-Class Play, Sabrina Fair, was presented on January tenth and fourteenth. The play was directed by Mr. DeHaven and sponsored by the senior class.

In the play, Sabrina returns to her home in Long Island after five years in Paris. Being the daughter of a chauffeur, she complicates the lives of all those around her when she falls in love with a rich man's son. The meeting of her three lovers produces a confusing situation. But her problem is finally solved when Sabrina chooses Linus for her husband.

Follow the Yellow Brick Road

Because this year's musical was directed at young audiences, and because the staging and scenery were so difficult, The Wizard of Oz was quite different from anything attempted before. One of the most unique features of the musical was the use of underclassmen as munchkins. The directing of Mr. Kline, the outstanding acting ability of the major characters, and the hard work of the entire cast and crew brought astonishing turnouts all three nights.

Homecoming 1973

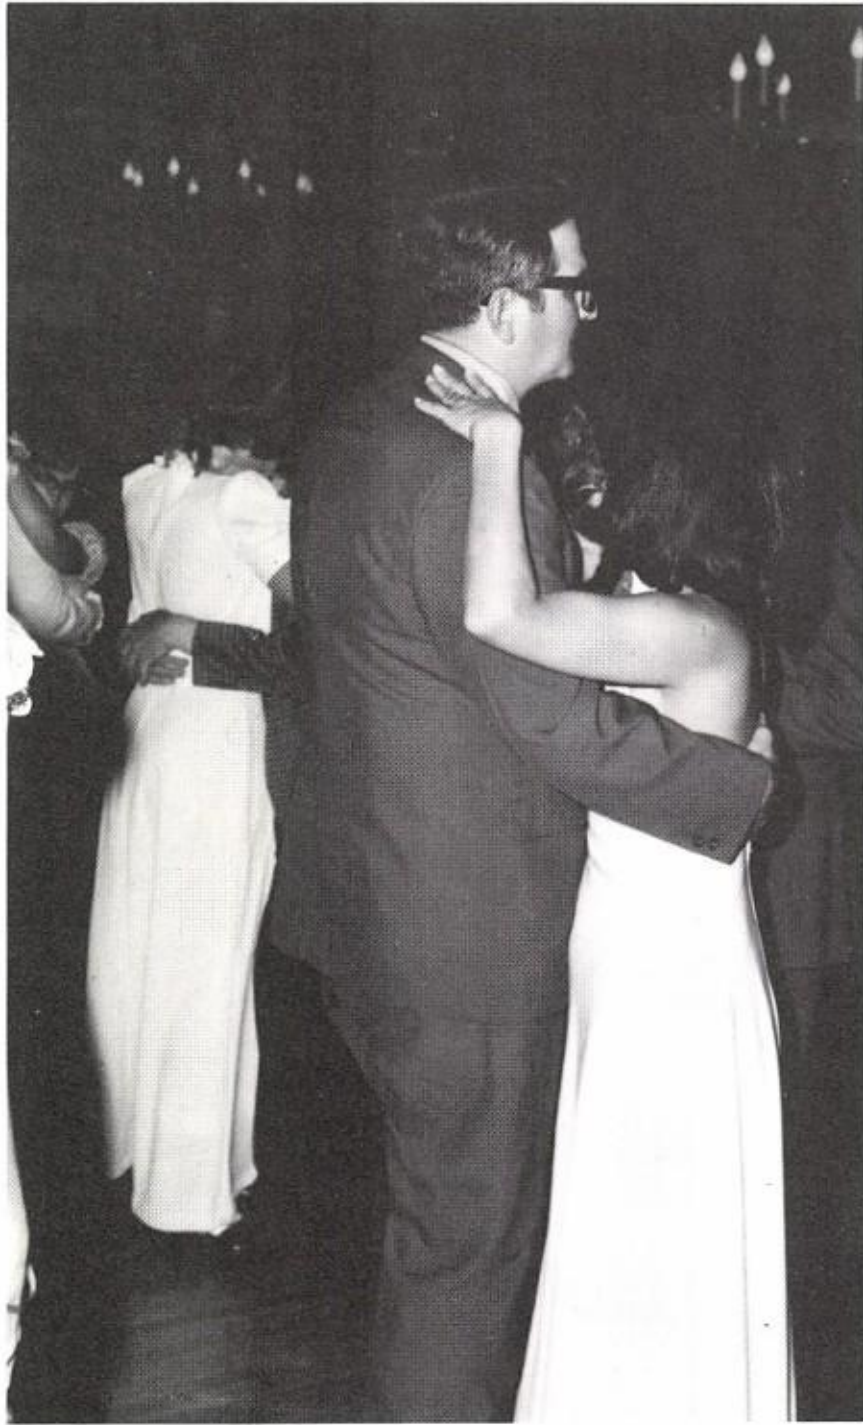

On Saturday, October 13, the Senior High Student Council sponsored its fourth annual homecoming dance, Homecoming 1973. Under the direction of Mr. Kline, the council members and several willing friends constructed a green and gold ballroom sparkling with the reflections of a mirror ball. The atmosphere created by the decorations was made complete by the feeling of pride for the victorious Annville-Cleona football team. The guests stopped their own dancing long enough to watch the coronation of the court. After a special dance by the court, the couples returned to the floor dancing to the music of the Big Band Nostalgia.

In the tradition begun by last year's juniors, this year's Junior-Senior Prom was also a dinner-dance. The evening at Park View Manor began with a dinner of either pork or roast beef and continued with dancing by the couples. Although most of the music was provided by The New Jazz Quartet, the chief entertainment of the evening was provided by the solos of Mike Shirk. The setting, dinner, music, and dance led to a very memorable evening.

Despite the problems of not having enough time to practice and having to spend much of the time reprimanding mischievous chorus members, Mrs. Sollenberger led her Senior High Chorus through another successful year of concerts. The annual Christmas concert, which was held on December 13, presented mainly sacred music from classical to modern composers.

One Spring Evening

The Senior High Choral Concert, presented on May 2, featured the Sophomore Girls' Chorus, the Senior High Chorus, the Senior Boys' Octette, the Glee Club, the boys' and girls' choruses, and soloists. The excellent choice of music, ranging from secular to sacred numbers, added to the success of the concert, but the real success came from the spirit and enthusiasm of the chorus members.

The Concert Band, which played numbers ranging from standard marches to songs from Godspell, held its annual concert. The band also performed for audiences at such functions as the junior high assemblies. During football season the concert band also became a marching band which provided the half-time entertainment, marched in local parades, and enforced school spirit.

The Stage Band, Pep Band, Brass Choir, and Wind Ensemble made up the various instrumental groups of the school. The Stage Band played for the Veteran's Hospital and also for the Tri-Class Play. The Pep Band which met on its own time, tried to arouse the school spirit. The band played at various functions such as the school basketball games and the pep bonfire. The Brass Choir performed at churches, church homes, and high school and elementary functions. Some of the more talented instrumentalists formed the group known as the Wind Ensemble which played at the Christmas Choral Concert.

New Club Explores France

This year was the first year for the French Club, an organization which attempted to unite students interested in French despite the level of their ability. Through unstructured activities Miss Brumbach helped the members to examine the French culture, language, and country. The informal meetings included singing French songs, and playing French games. Several times the members used the home ec. kitchens to prepare French food.

Books, Books, and More Books!

The Library Club hoped to interest students in librarianship, in books, and in reading. By doing this they hoped to give more efficient library service to the school. Many of the club's members also serve as library assistants, who are responsible for checking books out, returning books to the shelves, and filing the catalogue cards.

Check-Mate!

The Chess Club is another new Senior High club. The club was organized to teach the members the proper ways of playing chess and to give the members a chance for some entertainment. During the weekly meetings the members discussed strategy and played games. This year the club held a series of matches with ELCO High School and sponsored a school chess tournament.

Lights Out . . . Roll 'Em

The Audio-Visual Club not only serves the school but also instructs the members in the use of the aids. Under the direction of Mr. Pyles the teachers and members learn to operate and repair the equipment. After the teachers give the club a request for audio-visual equipment, the club sets up a schedule for the distribution of aids. Some duties of the club include setting up screens, loading film projectors, and replacing mal-functioning parts.

The Stage Crew not only serves the school, but also gives the members an opportunity to learn about the many tasks behind the scenes of a play, musical, or assembly. Whenever necessary the members hold work sessions to work on sets, adjust the lighting, and set up the risers. This year one of the stage crew's biggest assignments was the scenery and lighting for the school musical, which required many new and difficult sets.

Students Work for Changes

This year was a year of disappointments and changes for the Senior High Student Council. Although Homecoming and most of the Council sponsored dances were a success, the Council's biggest plan, the open campus program, was a failure. After several meetings with the Senior High students, the Student Council organized a new program, in which the members of the student body could serve on committees. The success of the Fifties Day and Dance enabled the Council to contribute to a pitching machine for the baseball team.

Members Gain Experience!

Through the Leader Corps students who are interested in physical education are given an opportunity to assist in regular physical education classes during their study periods. The Leader Corps members' duties include taking roll, conducting inspection, demonstrating techniques, and occasionally instructing the classes. This year the Leader Corps held a senior high fun night, sponsored their second annual volleyball tournament, and conducted a bake sale to help finance the other projects.

Letter Winners Serve School!

The Varsity Club is an organization which develops a sense of achievement for those who have excelled in interscholastic athletics. The members create better relations among the athletes of different sports and perform many services at athletic functions. This year the members maintained the trophy cases and bought jackets for the senior members of the club. To finance these projects the Varsity Club sold programs at football games and co-sponsored a donkey basketball game.

Keep on Truckin'!

The newly developed jogging club is somewhat different from most Annville-Cleona High School clubs. Because it encourages jogging to attain physical fitness, the club could be compared to a sport without competition from other schools. Through the constant running and encouragement the members develop a life-long appreciation for jogging and physical fitness. The members hope their jogging club will eventually be a club based upon the pride of being physically fit.

Club Increases School Spirit

The Pep Club, one of the new clubs formed this year, tried to create more spirit at Annville-Cleona athletic events. The members attempted to support all of the sports teams and cooperate with the suggestions of the coaches. During the year the Pep Club sponsored pep buses, sports parties for athletes, and school-wide color days. The members also made spirit signs for the halls and served refreshments after home wrestling matches.

The Women Behind the Men

The Mat Maids is a service organization formed to help the wrestlers and their coaches. So that the athletes can devote their time to preparing themselves for their individual matches, the club takes care of the major jobs like cleaning the mats, introducing the wrestlers, and keeping the statistics. Over the Christmas vacation the Mat Maids sponsored a wrestling tournament, financed through the sale of license plates, a dance, and a flower sale.

Through their efforts to improve their school and their community, the Tri-Hi-Y improved their own minds. The club had several representatives from the armed forces to speak to them during the year. The girls held a Christmas party for the pleasure of the Cleona handicapped class and entertained the Annville Elementary Special Education Class. The club hopes to increase its attendance and is looking forward to next year.

1973 State Champions — A team

The 1973 Cross Country Team is without a doubt the best cross country team in Pennsylvania, and the best team in Annville-Cleona's history. Scores reveal the fact that no team came close to defeating A-C except in the Conrad Weiser Invitational, where nothing went right.

Every member of the team played a part in the success of the team. After many weeks of competition, the six who ran at State were Bob Stachow, Tim Longenecker, Gordon Gerber, Sam Kincaid, Ed Gamber, and Scott Houser. Tom Tshudy and Rick Long were the alternates. The 48 points scored were the fewest ever scored by a class B champion.

The 1973 Team successfully defended the State Championship title brought to A-C by the 1972 Team.

The Dutchmen Football Team proudly represented A-C High in the 1973 football season. Although the attitude, enthusiasm and pride were ever present the Dutchmen were victims of tough breaks throughout the season. Adversity came in many forms. Injuries took their toll on the first team offense and defense, and inexperience became more of a problem as the season rolled on. No member of the team ever quit in his attempt to do honor to the school and every member of the coaching staff and team found 1973 to be very exciting and rewarding regardless of the record shown.

The J.V. team carried this pride and excitement shown by the entire football team to their record of seven wins and one loss. They were thereby posting the best J.V. record in the Lancaster-Lebanon League.

Their flame was not extinguished by the winds of defeat.

The 1973 Girls Field Hockey Team entered their season with spirit and determination. Although they failed to reach their goals — as far as scores and team record was concerned — the girls gained experience, learned to work together as a team and never gave up their fight for victory.

Boys Have a Tough Rebuilding Season

This year was a rebuilding year for the team with only two seniors, John Kincaid and Bill Boger. The most outstanding and consistent performances came from Scott Marshall and Ed Hoffer. Brad Hartman and Nick Faiola were the two leading scorers on last year's J.V. team but because of injuries were out most of this season. Most of the season the team was plagued by inexperience and inconsistent performances. The varsity team ended its season 3 and 15 in league play and 3 and 18 overall. The J.V. team did well, ending their season with a league record of 11 wins and 7 losses.

Girls almost break even with a league record of 7 wins and 9 losses

The 1973-74 Varsity Girls Basketball team finished with a record of 7 wins and 9 losses in league play and an overall record of 8 and 11. Because each team member was important it is hard to single out one factor which enabled our girls to stand up against some of the toughest teams in the league and run all over some of the others.

This year's J.V. team did succeed in having a winning season. Their record of 9 and 7 in league play and 11 and 8 overall shows bright hopes for the future. The teams successfully worked together and made a name for themselves in the Lancaster-Lebanon League.

This year boasted Annville-Cleona's first winning wrestling season and marked the first Dutchmen Holiday Tournament, in which Annville-Cleona finished fourth of the seven participating schools. At this tournament and in the league team several team members received honors. Although a few of the outstanding wrestlers graduated this year, expectations for next year's season look great. The outstanding Junior Varsity record promises an even better season next year.

One Game Away From a First Place Finish

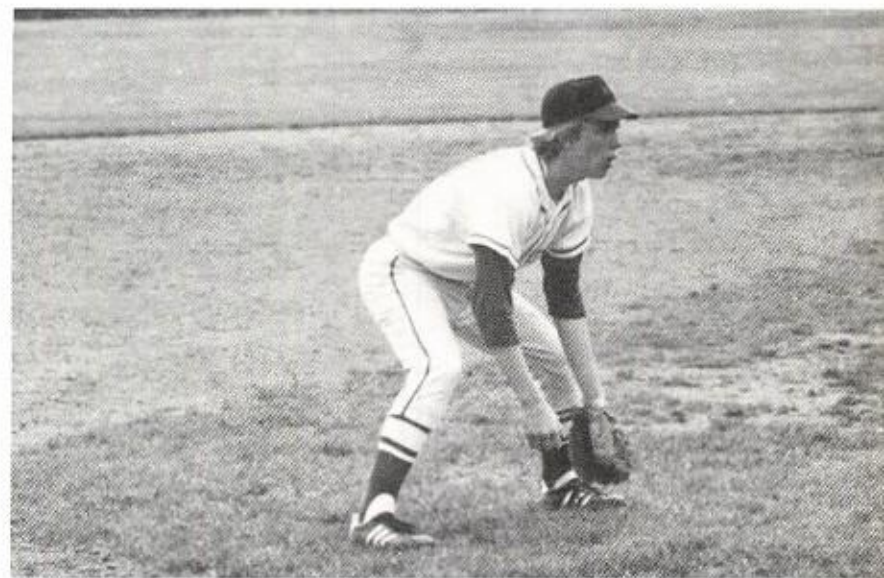

The Little Dutchmen, under new head coach Glenn Worcester, were picked this season to finish last in the northern section of the Lancaster—Lebanon League. The varsity, however, made believers out of many fans and teams as they began the season with a 4-0 record and in first place. The league ended up with Lebanon 10-2 and A-C 9-3. This gave the varsity second place and one game out of first place. Special recognition should be given to the seniors who made this season possible: Dennis Miller, Todd Hollinger, Gus O'Neal, and Doug Dohner.

This year's J.V. team, under Jim Sprecher, finished with 4 wins and 9 losses, many of which were due to erratic fielding. The team featured strong pitching and fair to good hitting.

This year's record of 9-9 was the winningest season for girls' tennis ever at A-C. This record was possible because of the outstanding individual performances of Jean Buchmoyer and Sandy Adey. Others who contributed timely wins were Liz Brensinger, Judy Weidler, Denah Appelt, Gail Buchmoyer, Beth Sherman and Deb Newman. The girls were shut out only once this season by a very good Elizabethtown team. They can be very proud of their excellent season.

1974 was a successful season for the track team. By winning 14 dual meets and losing only one, the team remained unbeaten through two successive years in Section II of the Lancaster-Lebanon League. The high point of the season was the winning of the District III Meet — the third such championship in our school's history. A-C had two gold medal places in the District Meet, winning both the mile relay (Rick Long, Jim Hershberger, John Kincaid, and Bill Boger) and the two mile relay in a new school and district record time of 8:05.8 (John Kincaid, Tim Boyer, Dave Smith, and Ed Gamber.)

Although the girls' track team finished their first year in the Lancaster-Lebanon League in last place, it was a good building year for the team. The girls competed with schools who have had girls' track for many years. This was definitely a handicap for Annville-Cleona. However, with our returning team members, next year should prove to be a better year.

Library Assistants Learn the Trade

The Library Assistants is mainly a service organization. By acting as an assistant to the librarian during study halls each member helps the school. The members' activities include checking out, shelving, and repairing the library books and performing the many other library tasks that a single librarian could not handle by herself. The organization also promotes an interest in librarianship as a career and encourages students to appreciate the library and its books.

Tri-Hi-Y Strives to Help Others

The goals of the Junior High Tri-Hi-Y, a basically religious group, are to strengthen the members' minds and bodies, and to work for a better world. By using their talents and by studying the needs of others the members perform services for others. This year the members made favors for St. Patrick's Day at Cedar Haven, held a dance for the Junior High, and sponsored a swimming party. The club's food sale financed these projects.

Society Travels to Williamsburg

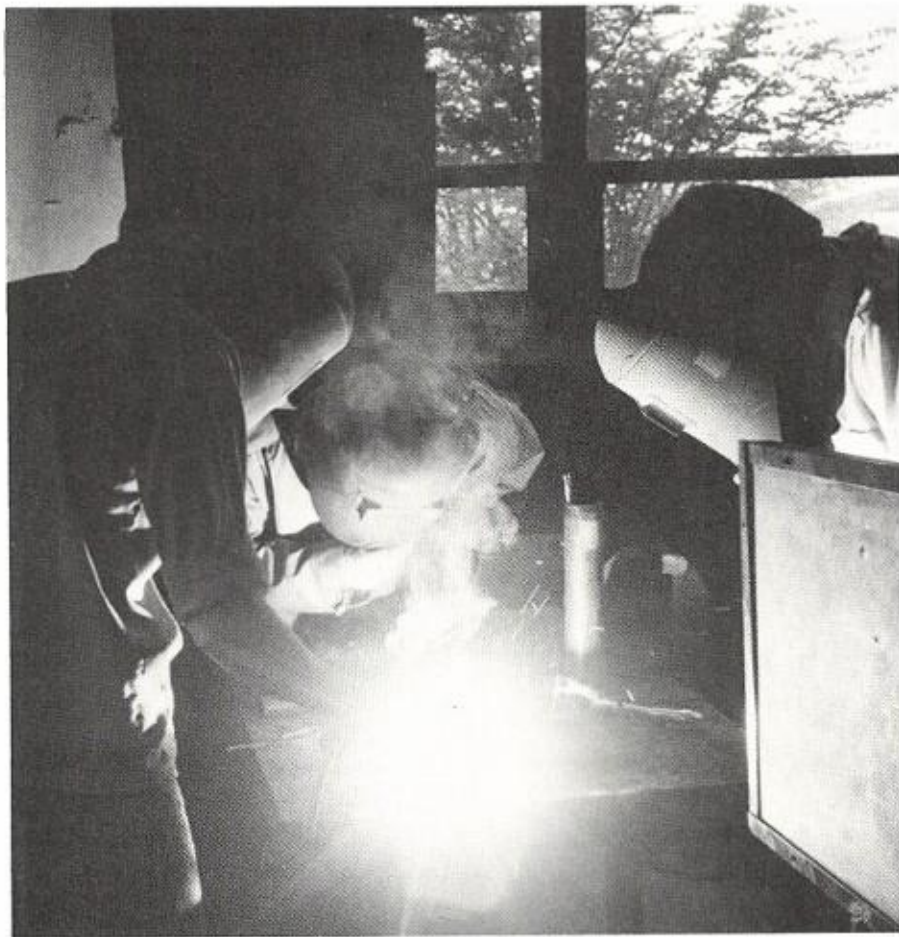

The Junior High Honor Society is a group that honors outstanding students. The members are chosen on the basis of their scholastic achievement, leadership abilities, citizenship, and outstanding character. The highlights of the year included the induction ceremonies and the group's field trip to Williamsburg, Va.

Future Farmers of Our Society

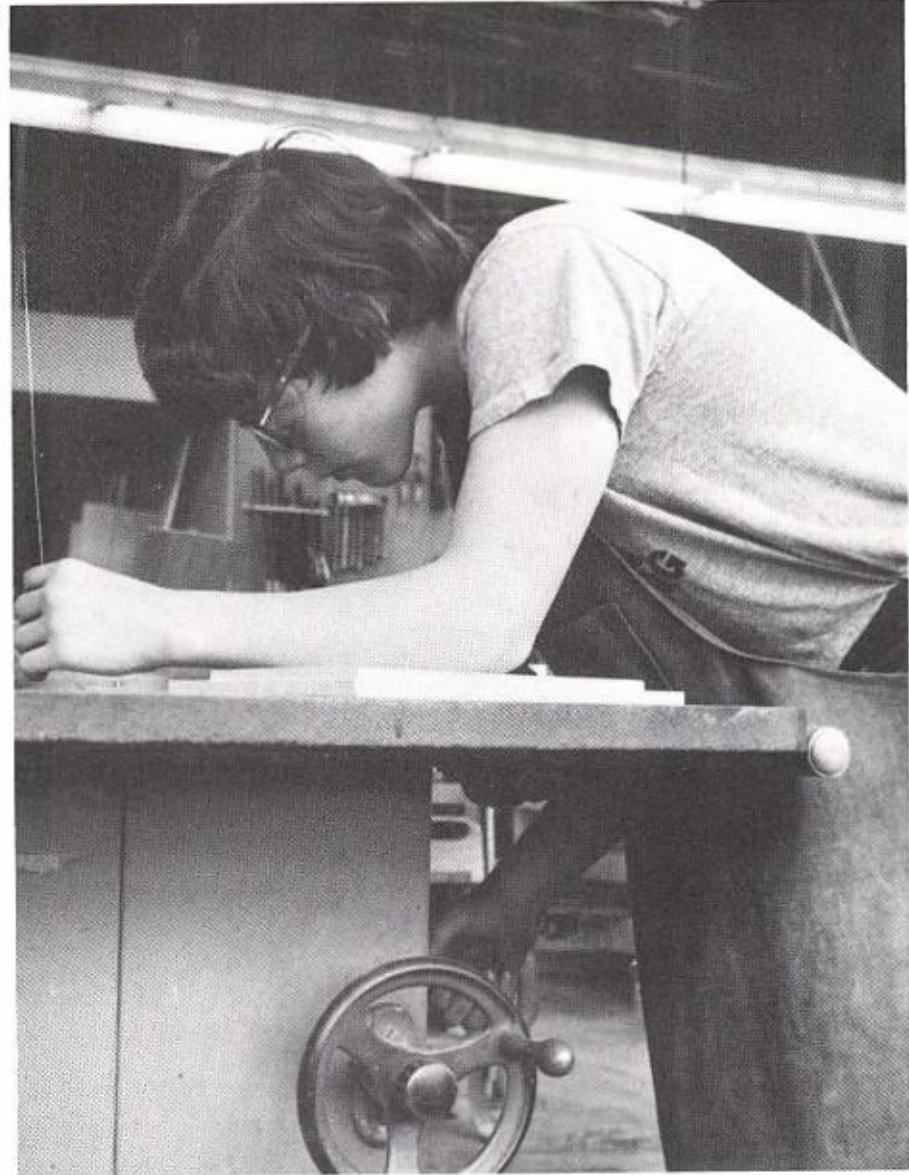

The main purpose of the Junior High Future Farmers of America is to acquaint students with agriculture and introduce students to the activities of the Senior High Future Farmers of America program. This year the members worked with the Senior High chapter and attended their annual banquet. The members also had several service projects including the planting of flower bulbs around the school building.

Learning to Be Homemakers

Under the direction of Mrs. Schaffer the Junior High Future Homemakers of America creates more interest in homemaking and teaches members how to face problems in both home and community life. During their meetings members learn to do more than the stereotype housewife role suggest. This year the club members visited the Pennsylvania Farm Show in Harrisburg and conducted service projects for church homes. To finance these projects the club members held bake sales.

The Presses Roll Once More

Although Junior High students had previously been given a chance to be on the staff of the school newspaper, this is the first year for a totally Junior High newspaper, The Outcry. The newspaper includes polls, interviews, puzzles, contests, and reports on activities inside and outside of the school. With the help of Mrs. Bixler, and Mrs. Iskowitz the newspaper staff wrote the articles, organized the paper, and held a candy apple sale to finance the paper.

Preparation for Future Leadership

The main purpose of the Junior High Student Council is to represent the Junior High Students. This year the members sponsored two fun nights, held the King and Queen of Hearts dance, planted trees for the school, and bought a much needed school flag. The Junior High dances helped to finance these projects and supplied entertainment for the students. A field trip to Washington provided a learning experience for the council.

One Enchanted Evening . . . Well Worth the Wait!

One of the most exciting evenings for Junior High students is the King and Queen of Hearts Dance, sponsored by the Junior High Student Council. This year the dance was held on February 16, from 7:30 to 10:30. After spending Friday night creating the red and white background for the dance, the council members were ready for the dance and the coronation. Kathy Wallace and Robert Wilhelm were crowned and reigned for the rest of the memorable evening.

Practice Makes Perfect

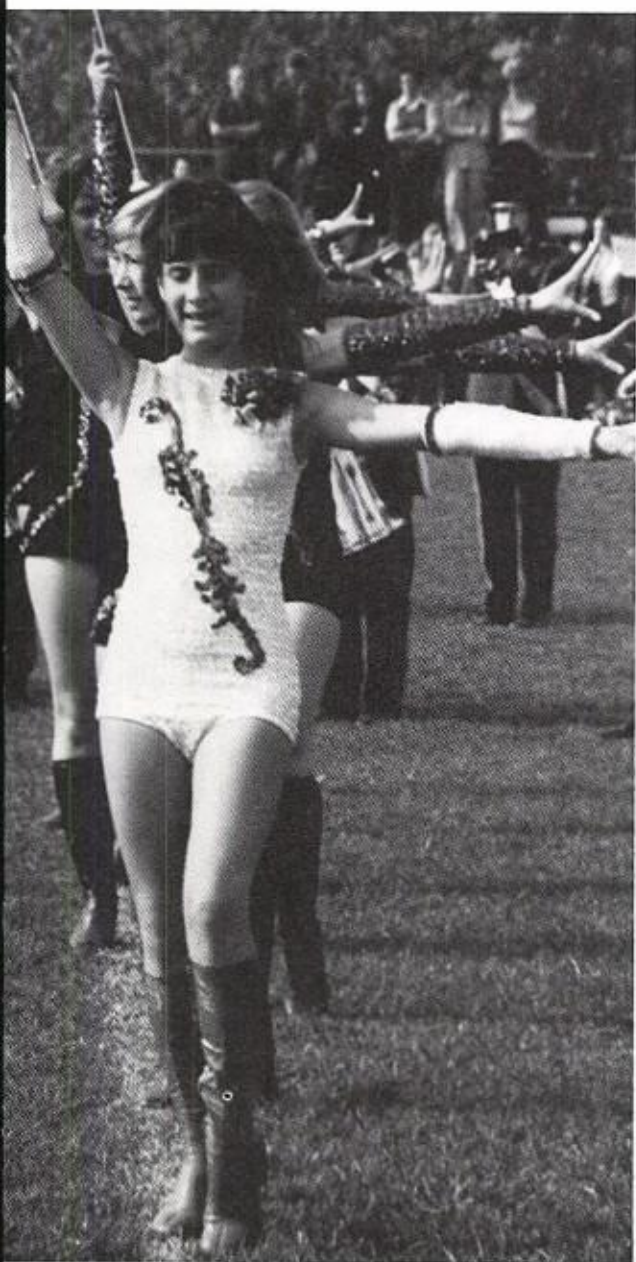

This year the Junior High students organized a Chess Club to display their ability to play the game. The club enabled the members to compete with players of their own skill. Although the members had been in a Chess League, they were forced to discontinue their plans because of the energy crisis. Through their weekly meetings the club members increased their ability to play chess.

And the Band Played on

Although many of the Junior High Band members could not attend all the practices because of sports and clubs, the Junior High Band had a successful year. This year the band held their annual concert, played in an assembly program, and marched in the Memorial Day Parade. The band's director, Mr. Lemon, was very pleased with the success of the Junior High Band and hopes for another good year next year.

Hard Work and Determination . . .

The seventh grade chorus provides many seventh graders with their first opportunity to sing in a large chorus. Under the direction of Mrs. Sollenbenberger the chorus members practiced during the school week and held two successful concerts. Hopefully, the members will use their experience in the seventh grade chorus to create a successful Junior High chorus next year.

Right: Mrs. Sollenberger and the chorus practice the songs for the Spring Choral Concert.

. . . Leads to Successful Concerts

This year Mrs. Sollenberger led her Junior High chorus, which consisted of eighth and ninth grade students, to successful Christmas and Spring Choral Concerts. Audrey Kaylor and Kory Umberger accompanied the members of the chorus as they sang numbers like "Christ, The Lord, Is Born" and "The Twelve Days of Christmas." Next year the ninth grade members will help to enrich the Senior High Chorus, and the eighth grade members will lend their experience to another year in the Junior High Chorus.

Left: Members of the chorus try to remember the words of a song as they practice for the concert.

Cheerleaders Spark Enthusiasm

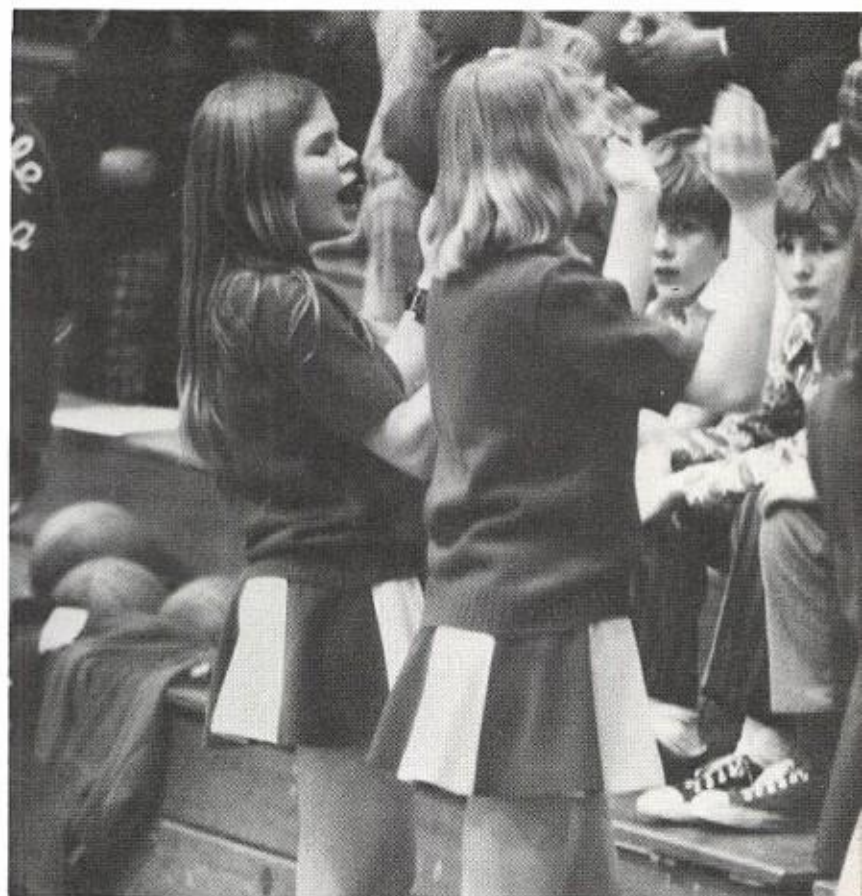

The main goal of the Junior High Cheerleaders was to create more school spirit and enthusiasm at Annville-Cleona High School. The cheerleaders tried to encourage more students to turn out for the games and support the Junior High teams. This year the cheerleaders did more than leading cheers and spreading school spirit. They also had a toothbrush sale, sold buttons, and held bake sales. The girls would eventually like to buy new uniforms with their profits.

This year the Junior High Football team had a hard season and a tough opposition. Although the boys lacked size and experience, and played schools with much larger enrollments, they never gave up. In most of the games the team kept up with their opponents during the first half. Even though the team is losing some talented players to next year's senior high team, the many returning lettermen guarantee a winning season next year.

Although the first half of the Junior High Basketball season was not outstanding, the team members used what they had learned during the first half to end the season with an excellent second half. The players came back to defeat many of the teams who had previously beaten them. Because the seventh and eighth graders faced many ninth grade opponents, they gained the experience necessary for a successful team next year.

The Race Is on

The Junior High track team compiled a record this year of 2 and 10. Although the overall record was not as good as possible, the year was a good one for the team. During the season four Junior High track records were set or tied. Because each team member competed at least once on an interscholastic level, the boys returning to next year's team will be more experienced and will hopefully lead to a winning record.

We're Learning

Although the Junior High Wrestling record is rather disappointing, the boys had a successful season, because they learned. One of the basic purposes for the Junior High Wrestling program is learning through experience. The success of Sr. High Wrestlers after participating in the Jr. High program proves the value of the program. Because over half the team is returning next year, the season will probably be a season of winning as well as learning.

Our Girls in Red and White

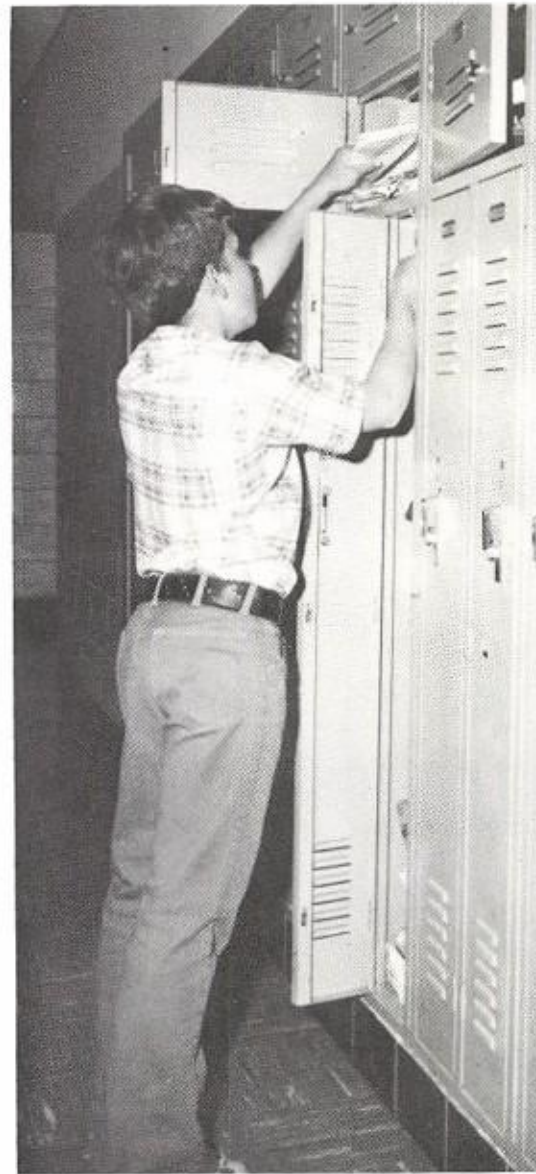

The Junior High Mat Maids is a group of girls formed to assist the wrestling team. Advised by Mr. Eschenmann the members of the club aid the team by cleaning the mats, introducing the wrestlers, and keeping the statistics.
